THE SHORTER THE BETTER. You can do as simple as, “here are the five reasons I’m voting for Emmett.” Or feel free to pull from the template below.

With the potential to flip our Executive Council District 1 from Republican to Democrat, I am writing today to tell you why Emmett Soldati is the number one choice for that position.

First, the Executive Council - we’re one of the only states with this particular body which advises on statewide plans, approves judgeships and state agency appointments, and approves all contracts above $10k. Unfortunately, it’s not a well known body and the five positions are often held by the establishment players year after year. It’s time to change that and open up the Executive Council to a candidate committed to representing people who haven’t had a seat at the table: LGBTQ+, immigrants, SNAP recipients, those in recovery or struggling with substance abuse disorder, and many more. Our state is full of vibrant, engaged folks fostering community in their own backyards - proud of their small towns and cities. We need an Executive Council that speaks to the needs of all our communities.

Emmett has devoted himself to his community by making his cafes inclusive spaces for everyone, and dynamic places that have activated residents who are ready to put their values into action. There’s no question that the designation of his hometown of Somersworth as the “Rainbow City” is due in no small part to Emmett’s tireless work. His recent suit and victory against Facebook is just one example of Emmett challenging the idea of “might makes right” by representing himself against the sixth largest company in the world. And winning.

I am inspired by his creativity, his spirit, and his vision for a New Hampshire that welcomes and celebrates the full participation of all of us. I think he would make a great Executive Councilor. If you are inspired by the next generation of leadership that is shining so brightly in these times, I invite you to check him out and to consider supporting him in the General Election, Tuesday November 5.
